INSTRUCTIONS

There are four sections to the app:

1. DECIDE

This is the core part of the app and is to be used once a decision has been made. The decide section is set as the home screen as it is used the most frequently.

The first task is to briefly summarise what decision has been made. It is best if you are as specific as possible eg I have decided to Hire a general Manager on $150,000 pa by the end of June. If the screen shows red this indicates you can't proceed without an entry.

After you select you get categorize the decision into

Assess / Insight: This section will be the hardest to understand if you haven't had any background in the decisionship methodology. Don't let that hold you back from giving it a go though! To assess using insight you will be using four universal business principles, namely the need to reduce frictions (negative forces that hold you back), foster actuators (positive forces that propel you forward), reduce mass (the things in business that slow you down) and finally increase balance (the term for ensuring all of your stakeholders are looked after).

Firstly you will need to nominate which two of the eight frictions you are currently experiencing in the Pre-Work

CLOSE

- Decisionbank section

(a) When the user clicks on the How to Use the App hyperlink it should go straight to the pop up a window (shown below)

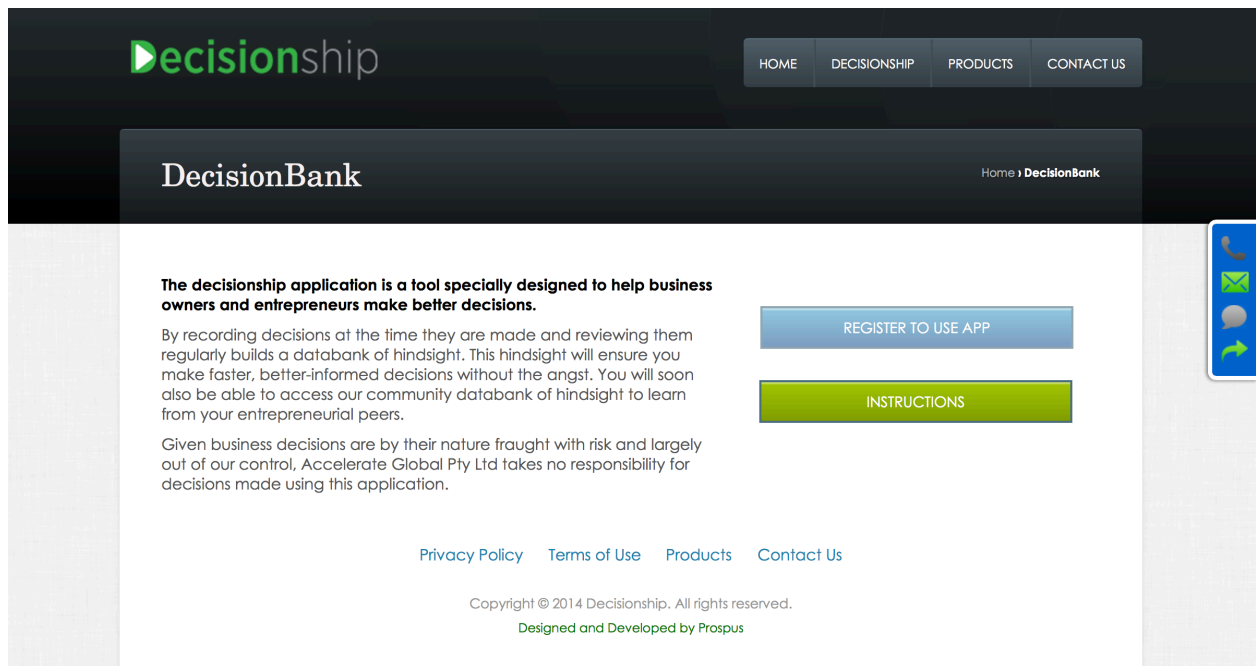

(b) Add the following content in a paragraph above There are four sections to the app:

The decisionship application is a tool specially designed to help business owners and entrepreneurs make better decisions.

By recording decisions at the time they are made and reviewing them regularly builds a databank of hindsight. This hindsight will ensure you make faster, better-informed decisions without the angst. You will soon also be able to access our community databank of hindsight to learn from your entrepreneurial peers.

Given business decisions are by their nature fraught with risk and largely out of our control, Accelerate Global Pty Ltd takes no responsibility for decisions made using this application.
